

Company policy

Our vision: Güdel is the number one for intelligent motion technologies

Racks, pinions, gears, Linear guideways, gearboxes, linear axes, gantries and customized solutions: with innovative motion technologies, Güdel brings flow to industrial automation. For minimum breakdowns and frictional losses. For maximum performance in shorter time. For really efficient, flowing production processes.

We are a reliable partner to our customers, employees and suppliers, meeting the highest standards of quality, safety, legal compliance, efficiency and environmental performance in our products and manufacturing processes.

We adhere to legal requirements and binding obligations – in particular, the internationally recognised human and employment rights, as well as environmental standards – and have incorporated them into the Güdel Code of Conduct and associated guidelines for compliance.

To achieve our objectives we operate a process-oriented management system, which we are continuously improving. In doing so, we emphasize on constantly improving quality, occupational health and safety in the workplace. We put highest priority on avoiding accidents and environmental damage. In addition, we focus on the sustainable use of resources and strive to continuously improve our environmental performance.

Our greatest asset for being successful is our employees. Which is why we encourage passion, effectiveness and an open mind in everything we do, i.a. by integrating our employees in the set-up and development of our Güdel management system and thereby the realisation of our company policy.

We keep a close eye on the satisfaction of our stakeholders and the associated progress we are making towards achieving our goals.

Hans Gut
CEO/CTO

Armin Haller
CSO

Adrian Jäggi
CFO

Urs Fischer
COO

Isabelle Känzig
CHRO

Johanna Rauchenberger
Dir. Q & HSSE